DISTRICT & SESSIONS COURT, NASHIK

A. History of District Court, Nashik.

B. Right to Information Act, District Court, Nashik

š

Nashik is Centre of North Maharashtra. Nashik District lies in the north-west part of the State. Nashik is situated on the Deccan Plateau being about 600 meters above mean sea level. Whether being pleasant throughout the year. Jalgaon and Aurangabad Districts lie to the east of Nashik District. To its south lies Ahmadnagar District. To its west are Thane District and a part of Gujrath State. Dhule District and a part of Gujrath lie to its north.

Nasik District came under the regime 'Chalukat' and then 'Rajkut' and again under the regime of 'Chalukat'. From the period of end of 12th century A.D. till 1312, it was under the regime of Yadavas of Devgiri. After 1313, this place was under the regime of rulers of Delhi for a short period and subsequently formed to be a part of Bahamani State of Gulbarga and it was under that regime from 1347 to 1390. And from 1490 till the middle of 17th century, it was ruled by the Nizams of Ahmednagar and was set free from their rule by Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj. After that, during the rule of Emperor Aurangzeb, he merged this place of Nasik into Mughal's empire and named the city of Nasik as 'Gulshanabad'. Subsequently, Chhatrapati Shahu Maharaj set free Nasik (Gulshanabad) from the Mughal's rule and then from 1818 ie until the decline of Peshwas, Nasik was under the British rule till India got freedom.

Nasik District was then divided into two parts during the time when British took over the rule. 'Peth' was the place of office of Additional Collector and 'Thane' was a District place, which was the office of the Collector. The offices of Police Headquarters and Superintendent of Police were also at Thane, which is apparent from the letters of Shri. H. B. Bowell dated 30.12.1857 and 4.1.1858 delivered to the then Collector of Thane Shri. Morgan. During the period of 1857 and 1858, the first Assistant Magistrate was the Assistant Collector and it appears that Police Superintendent also exercised the power to try Criminal Cases. As mentioned in the letter of Shri. Bowell dated 1.1.1858, the Magistrate of Peth had tried the case against Raje Binagwantrao Neelkanthrao Pawar and had sentenced him to death for the crime of waging war, by hanging which was executed in public in from of Court of Peth. Shri. Bowell had also sentenced 13 people to life imprisonment, earlier known to be as the punishment of 'Kaia Pani'. Also Capt. Walkar who was then Police Superintendent, had punished Dhondu Kali Vallabh and 13 others. The present southern part of Nasik District ie Nashik, Sinnar, Niphad, Yeola the area of these Talukas was included in the Ahmednagar District. The Court of District and Sessions Judge was not in existence in Nashik District till 1884. It was established in Nasik in the year 1884 and started functioning in 1885.

The old District Court Building is built in black Stone in British Regine and the new one is built in the year 2005. The inauguration of new building of District Court was made on 18 September, 2005 at the hands of Honourable Shri. Justice Dalveer Bhandari.

There are 15th Talukas in this District Total 66 Courts included Taluka Courts are functioning. The First District Judge was Mr. M. B. Bekar, who has presided over for the period 1885-1891. The present Principal District Judge is Mr. C.V. Bhadang from January 2010 onwards.

JACKSON MURDER CASE

Story of The Nashik Conspiracy

The Mitra Mandal

The evidence in this case establishes that prior to the year 1906, an association of young men, mostly Brahmans, existed in Nashik under leadership of Ganesh & Vinayak Savarkar which was known as the Mitra-Mela. In it were reproduced the features of other similar associations in the Deccan to which reference has already been made. Exciting songs were prepared for the Ganpati & Shivaji festivals & the members of the Mitra-Mela used to join in singining these songs either in procession or in the precincts of some temple or other place of assembly. Physical instruction was given to members by one of the witnesses in this case & by a Mahomedan brought for the purpose from Baroda. The activities of the association did not, however, cease there for we have evidence, which we accept as true, that meeting were held at the house of Ganesh Savarkar & Aba Darekar, one of the song-writers of the association, at which the biographies of patriotic revolutionists were read & re-read, the particular favourites being Mazzini, Shivaji & Ramdas where discussions were carried on with regard to the means for attaining independence for India. At these meeting the methods advocated were the education of public by means of lectures, books & songs, & the preparation for rising against the British Government by collection of arms & ammunition. We have examples of inflammatory speeches delivered by Vinayak & Narayan Savarkar & by Mahadev Bhat, & a photograph of number of members of the Mitra Mela, several of whom are among the accused, grouped round Vinayak Savarkar of whom are among the accused, grouped round Vinayak Savarkar in which four or five pictures of Shivaji, A board bearing the words "Bande Mataram" & a book bearing the name of Mazzini on the outer cover are prominently displayed, which corroborate the general description of the aims & methods of the association given by the witnesses. The photograph Exhibit A-271, to which reference has been made, marks an important stage in the history of the association. Its occasion was the impending departure of Vinavak Savarkar for England in the middle of June 1906, a step which he was enabled to take owing to his being the recipent of a scholarship given by Shamji Krishna Varma, the founder of the India House at Highgate. Up to the time of his departure, Vinayak Savarkar had been one of the most active & probably the most stimulating of the members of the Mitra Meta. In the early part of 1906 speeches were delivered by him in Poona & in nashik the object of which was to arouse the country & to suggest how by means of mental training & amp; physical exercises, preparation might be made for successful revolt.
